PRESS RELEASE
03.11.14
FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Single Launch - Sebright Arms - 12.11.14
E.P Launch - Servant Jazz Quarters - 30.11.14

Link: https://soundcloud.com/eve-i-1/sets/eve-i-ep/s-IXCbZ

Eve & I deliver their debut self-titled EP with it's alternative, cinematic pop sound.

Hailing from Ireland and the UK, Eve & I's sound is a string of stirring, emotion-led, cinematic pop tracks, an unorthodox and disjointed take on slick pop destined for wide attention. With new single 'Sorry, what was it that you said?', they've refined this storytelling process to create their sharpest cut yet.

The EP launch event promises to be a magical evening of music and film with a special screening of the band's debut singles music video by director Riccardo Servini, as well as a performance from special guest Patrick Freeman.

Eve & I have supported artists such as Laura Marling and Wallis Bird. The band have also toured independently around the UK, Ireland, and Europe under their previous name Bona Fide Federation. Since their move to London, Eve & I have performed at the legendary Ronnie Scotts Jazz Club in Soho, graced Shoreditch's quirky vintage shop front scene, Kensington's Royal College of Music and recently headlined at Camden's iconic music venue The Monarch. Eve & I are looking forward to bringing their new sound to your ears.

Any additional information, as well as requests for interviews, can be arranged through:

Name: Triona O' Neill
E-mail: trionaoneill@me.com
Phone: +44 7757 808 171

Thank you.