MANIFESTO

This Manchester born indie pop band should need no introduction and their music speaks for itself,

A combination of funk and indie allow the band to compose their own unique infectious sound.

Originally playing in pubs to now a number of sell out shows and support slots with notable bands such as the roystern club across England the band has firmly planted their feet in the music industry

The band don't just stop at on stage shows, they have caught the eye of the BBC which has allowed their tracks to be played across the country on different stations such as bbc radio Kent / Surrey / Sussex/Brighton and secured weekly replays on local stations in the north west such as Lymm radio
