

The Magnapinna

マカナピナ

"The Magnapinna are not like other bands" confirmed Sam Laws of Kerrang back in March 2019 .

In a seemingly endless world of copy and paste indie bands that litter the Irish music scene, these lads possess a dynamic sense of attitude and swagger rarely found in groups these days. Press Ctrl-Z and listen to the new sound for 2020. In a time of national peril, the hour is here to take a chance and travel with The Magnapinna towards a new era of sound and vision.

Frequently likened to "Faith no More meets Talking Heads" The Magnapinna ensnare crowds with their powerful, charismatic and super-tight live performances. Formed in 2015 in Cork city and named after a species of mysterious deep sea squid and, like it's namesake, the band is formed of multiple tentacles which lend themselves to a single, driven form of sound that fearlessly gets the audience dancing to their tune "in a world of stereotypes, we need bands like The Magnapinna who push boundaries and challenge convention." The Magnapinna have played the length and breadth of Ireland releasing three Ep's as well as a number of music videos and promo shorts.

"On their latest EP "This is No Wave," raucous heavy metal riffs mix nicely with Talking Heads style vocals" - Hotpress, May 2018.

The groups first abum is forthcoming in 2020 as well as a short tour in The Netherlands.
Save yourself from mediocrity, embrace The Magnapinna xxx

click the links to visit:

themagnapinna@gmail.com