

The Bad Apples: Info.

BIO:

- We're from North Walsham, Norfolk. The cultural black hole.
- The Bad Apples consist of Tom Gray: Drummer, and Matt Neave: Guitar and Vocals.
- We've known each other from childhood and started a three piece punk band with a bassist friend of ours.
- he then left and we swapped roles to make The Bad Apples.
- The Bad Apples officially formed in May 2011.
- Quickly started writing songs with a bluesy influence.
- We then stepped up the game, recorded some demos and shot a music video
- Then we played some more gigs around Norfolk.
- In 2013 we recorded another EP, Fallen Far From The Tree. This was our first EP available in a physical format, with proper artwork etc.
- We recorded a split EP shortly after with our good friends, I Was Once A Dinosaur called Mega Apple Vs. Giant Dinosaur, in which we recorded 4 of each others songs in our own styles, then ran a launch party at The Owl Sanctuary in Norwich, which was a big success.
- We're now peddling these as much as possible, and looking for gigs further away from Norwich.

NEWS:

- We were considered for 'Rock The House' parliamentary battle of the bands.
- Recently had our split EP Mega Apple Vs. Giant Dinosaur reviewed by Rad Times Promotions in Norwich.
- We recently supported That Fucking Tank
- Once we played a gig outside a Homebase
- We've just come out of the studio, recording a new single 'The Death Of Rock And Roll'

- Articles Available here —> http://www.reverbNation.com/control_room/artist/1943795/press

MERCHANDISE:

- <https://thebadapples.bandcamp.com/merch>