

DAN ROSE

INDIE FOLK SINGER/SONGWRITER

Solo artist Dan Rose is an exciting songwriter and performer, who puts his thoughts on things such as sustainability, climate action and a minimalistic approach to life, into words using only his acoustic guitar and his characteristic DIY approach.

Rose's songs could be called modern protest songs, and he is never afraid of sharing his feeling of inadequacy or his frustration about the state of the world with his listener – always with a sense of down to earth charm and warm presence.

Rose has played more than 100 shows and performed his songs and stories in more than 10 countries.

Dan Rose's single "What They Want", is a protest song; a desperate cry from one man to the people in charge around the world: You get more, and we get less – our globe pays the price.

"The borderland between classic folk centered around a good voice and an acoustic guitar - and a punk rock edge"
