

no!machine

electro industrial alternative

Machinery, flesh and blood in a symbiotic interplay. The band is fascinated by this contrast, which gives them plenty of freedom to create and innovate.

No Machine, with Martin Durst (vocals) and Christoph Dominik (drums) are currently busy producing their first album: Flesh and Blood. They say it, they mean it!

A rock album, merging electronic and acoustic elements to a living machinery. Loud and fat. Without ifs and buts, somewhere between industrial, alternative and electro.

If you like Nine Inch Nails, you will feel just as comfortable with No Machine as you will as an admirer of Depeche Mode and Co.

