

THE WILD FIRES

Folk, Pop & a little bit of Country

INFO

"Like Simon & Garfunkel meets Emmylou Harris round at Dolly Parton's house where Paul Weller's trying to break in."

The Wildfires recently released their debut album "One", produced by David Young, who has also produced artists such as Nico, John Cale and Element of Crime.

The Wildfires believe in getting to the heart of the matter, and it's their perfect, heart-felt harmonies that can really cut and twist the listener, blurring the line between pleasure and pain. There's always something exciting, something thrilling in their songs, something which one can put down to their interwoven dual harmony vocals which carry a deep emotional edge, reminiscent of the duets sung by Emmylou Harris and Gram Parsons, Johnny Cash and June Carter, or Graham Nash and Joni Mitchell back in the 1970's – Paul Bonin and Elizabeth Carlton have come upon a real treasure in their mutual musicianship which they have turned into something touching and true ...
