Biography

Music comedy duo Nightmares from the Discotheque are excited to bring their own brand of rock, hip-hop and mind-blowing visuals to the Leeds Festival for the first time. Expect hilarious songs, skits and audience interaction as frontmen Rick Schaple and Canz Rickman tear through a set packed with sci-fi themes, observational lyrics and complete absurdity. It's loud, rocking and funny as hell!

The band have already built up a dedicated following, having played shows up and down the country, touring with the likes of The Beards, Electric Six, and The Rubberbandits, as well as appearing at Edinburgh Fringe Festival and Download 2015. Described as "Ambitious, inventive and crazy funny" (TimeOut Magazine) the live show is a must see for fans of surreal comedy, sci-fi themes, and rocking songs!

Nightmares from the Discotheque unleash a huge amount of energy on stage, but their efforts don't stop at the live performances. Every aspect of the band is created independently by the duo. The writing, production, visuals and music videos are created solely by them. When they're not performing with the band the duo are YouTubers, creating high quality content for their thousands of subscribers.

They are determined to bring the best comedy rock show you'll see at this year's Leeds festival! In the meantime, with an ever-growing back catalogue of high production value content on their YouTube channel, festival goers have plenty of material to enjoy in the build-up to their Leeds Festival appearance! Don't miss this one of a kind show!
