RECENT SIGNIFICANT PRESS REACTIONS

"I haven't felt this moved by a modern prog rock band since first hearing The Mars Volta's De-Loused in the Comatorium over a decade ago. Them Moose Rush might be one of the most promising and artistically rich bands in prog rock since The Mars Volta."

"...Them Moose Rush are easily dropping the most interesting album of this week. Don't Pick Your Noise sounds like an album someone poured out of a blender after mixing Destrage, Sikth, At The Drive-In, and a dash of Primus."

"...bands sounds like the lovechild of The Mars Volta and Mr. Bungle, while still maintaining a unique approach....the music manages to be technically complex at times, but never loses the humming-along factor. The band oozes confidence all over the record, and you're gonna feel it, damn it."

THEM MOOSE RUSH Don't Pick Your Noise

THR

Courageous Croations bundle over genre boundaries

Croatia's Them Moose Rush live up to their nonsensical name, widdling through 45 minutes of White Stripes by way of Frank Zappa. A seemingly loose, bluesy affair, Don't Pick Your Noise relies on golden hooks as much as it does improvisation; for every random noise, noodly solo or elongated blues lick there's the insatiable kick drum in Dumadu Honey or Stupid Face's gloriously childish chorus. Nikola Runjavec's vocals sit in the pockets of Jack White and Robert Plant, really embellishing the moments when Them Moose Rush decide to throw out effortlessly heavy, sludge-worthy riffs. It's a sandblasted, bass-laden, wah-pedal-in-your-face affair, and even when it loses focus towards the end – they're much better at being a prog-tinged rock band than the other way around – it still engages on a level above the "you've never heard jazz, right?" stuff Royal Blood dish out.

".....it would be almost reductive to catalog this album as only progressive; it is much more than this, it is a playground where the main rule would be to not follow the rules. Don't Pick Your Noise is the image of its creators: creative and innovative."

"It's clear that the engrossing, madcap nature of Them Moose Rush has an appeal far Beyond Croatia."

By: Prog Magazine, UK - excerption from Interview!

"The musicians play superbly - the content that is very complex and very rich in moves and transitions is created with ease and artistry"

"So what do they sound like? Imagine Robert Plant, Jack White, Cedric Bixler Zavala and Prince locked up in a studio after demolishing unknown quantities of ketamine and acid. Yep, you've got the picture."

INTERNATIONAL EXPERIENCE & SIGNIFICANT SHOWS

NL – Eurosonic showcase festival & small NL tour (4 gigs)

GER – Krach Am Bach Festival – before headliner “Color Haze”

FRA – 2 times at Europavox festival

ITA – Tetris club, Trieste

SLO – multiple small festivals

SER – multiple shows & support before Torche EU tour gig in Belgrade

CRO:

- Sold out KSET for “Don’t Pick Your Noise” promo gig
- Played most of the “cult” rock venues in Zagreb such as Vintage Industrial Bar, KSET, Močvara, Tvornica Kulture
- Played most significant music festivals: INmusic festival (3 times, shared the stage with major bands like QOTSA, Kings of Leon, Black Keys,), Super Uho, Ferragosto Jam, Rock Live...

THE PLAN

STRENGTHEN THE FOCUS - we believe TMR is one of the most interesting bands in the world in our genre with strong international potential.

KEEP THE GROWTH - recently we have achieved doubled local audience after latest release, exponential growth of streaming and online sales mostly from EU and USA, amazing international media coverage for a diy band...For example "Don't Pick Your Noise" vinyls and CD's have so far reached our supporters from: US, Germany, UK, Switzerland, Australia, France, Russia, Ireland, Cyprus, Austria, Columbia, Slovenia and of course Croatia.

BROADEN THE EXPERIENCE - The band has already played shows and festivals in countries like France, Holland, Germany, Italy and others and has fans in dozens of countries around the world (vinyl and cd sales)

SHORT TERM GOALS - try to get into as many as possible showcase festivals, we are working on a EU tour, summer festival markets in 2019 as well as numerous weekend shows in the region and neighboring countries. The next album is planned for the late 2019.
