

“Patricia”

Quirky danceable indie pop from The New Investors

On August 10th, The New Investors are set to premiere a new single, Patricia from their conceptual LP, In Love With Everyone. The Copenhagen five-piece utilize a fascinating blend of electro pop and rock, commingling irresistible hooks with solid instrumentation and vocals.

Patricia is a quirky indie pop song about your old teenage crush from high school. Patricia was quite attractive, as you surely remember, but she was “too cool for school”, trying a little too hard to be the first to know about the newest music, the newest art and the newest fashionable clubs. It really annoyed you because you knew you had to impress her in a way you just couldn’t – so in the chorus you break out:

“Patricia just for once I wonder if you could shut up and just dance with me”

