About ASNDA

ASNDA is a South African born singer, songwriter, speaker and film producer. An independent Pop/R&B artist whose music is influenced by soulful blues and electronic hip hop. She had pursued singing at a young age and after high school had followed her love for storytelling. She was the youngest successful commercial director in South Africa at her time. She later moved to Belgium to feed her entrepreneurial spirit and Acquired an MBA at +Leuven University in Belgium. Building her e-commerce businesses. After her second child she took up the courage to return to music in reconnecting herself back to her calling and finding her happiness was in a song.

She is an independent solo artist that has worked with international producers such as; Mantra, Vovirus and Tone Jones and her L.A music director who worked in cinema, Mr. Ernest Weinrath. The unforeseen duality of electronic hip hop and cinematic appeal came together to create Asnda's dynamic pop/neo-soul in her songs such as 'I am' and 'Pata Pata'. Her music can be heard on all music platforms.

She is currently living in Belgium as a live and recording music artist and motivational speaker for women in 'Unveiling the Identity'
