With 'Eruption' following in August, which both received a great reception. She is currently working towards the release of more new music. As well as receiving funding from the prestigious PRS Lyndsey De Paul Prize Lia's creativity comes across within attention to detail with all ideas self directed.

"I'm driven to create music because it's an outlet as to how I feel, sometimes I don't like anyone to know how I feel or know aspects of my life. So, if I put it in a song it's less direct and instead leaves people wondering. The crowd is what drives me to perform when there's a good interactive audience I always feel x10 better and enjoy it. That feeling is what drives me to do more, and also the fact that I simply enjoy doing it."
