

MARCEL LÜSCHER & KRISTINN SMÁRI KRISTINSSON

Clarinet, bassclarinet, saxophone
kalimba, ocarina

Guitar

The sparse instrumentation is misleading: the Swiss saxophonist and clarinetist Marcel Lüscher together with guitarist Kristinn Smári Kristinsson from Iceland have created a floating ecstatic cosmos.

Both pay homage to beauty – not in an esoteric, kitschy or emotional manner, but in a thought-provoking way, courageous in it's simplicity.

Their subtle introspective music lets us pause and listen carefully, it sharpens our sensitivity towards quietness and the unspectacular and praises a quality of life we are about to lose.

You cannot avoid hearing the desire and buzzing in the musician's hearts, no matter how quietly they play their instruments. The two musicians harmonize perfectly and play their own style of music somewhere between Björk on valium and Gimmy Giuffre's slow motion.

Music with a view – ears with eyes. Breathe.

Anyone who doesn't get warmed up here will freeze for a long time!
